

Ben works for EPA as a hydrogeologist providing technical support to groundwater and vapor intrusion investigations and remedies throughout Region 4. Bentkowski has been a practicing geologist for 38 years, serving 31 years in environmental hydrogeology in Atlanta and throughout the South. For the past ten years, he has provided technical support for the Superfund and RCRA Divisions of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Region 4 office in Atlanta. He is a longtime member of the Atlanta Geological Society and currently serves as the President. He earned a bachelor's degree in Geology from Florida Atlantic University and a master's degree in Geology from Oklahoma State University.